Local Government Compliance & Enforcement Review

The NSW Government has asked IPART to undertake a series of reviews to reduce unnecessary regulatory burden (red tape) within local government.

One of the first areas for review focus, is on local government compliances and enforcement activities.

The review looks at how council's in NSW implement and enforce regulations.

HIA welcomes the review as there is room for improvement in the regulatory role that council's play and the need to reduce duplication of some administration processes.

HIA will be submitting a response which is due 29 October 2012.
